“Our Government believes murderers must serve serious time to denounce their egregious actions. We are putting an end to the Trudeau-style justice policies of focusing solely on the rights of murderers and we are bringing some justice back to the justice system.”

“It is difficult for Canadians to understand how these short sentences, which are the result of giving a two-for-one credit for any time spent in pre-trial detention, can act as a condemnation of illegal behaviour, dissuade offenders from committing offences or protect society. Canadians have told us loud and clear that they would like to see more truth in sentencing by ending the practice of giving double-time credit for pre-trial custody.”

Honourable Rob Nicholson, P.C., M.P.
